Elected vs Deemed Elected

To be elected to a District Representative position, a candidate must receive over half the votes cast in accordance with the bylaws.

During a run-off election for multiple positions, there could be all or some candidates that do not achieve the majority of votes. In that situation, we would drop the candidate with the least number of votes which makes the number of candidates match the remaining number of positions. This is what the Local Election Committee, (LEC), calls “Deemed Elected”.

In this run-off election we had 5 candidates running for 4 positions. One received the majority of votes cast and was “Elected”. The candidate with the least number of votes was removed and that left three candidates for the three remaining positions. These candidates were “Deemed Elected”.
